SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1914

NO. 5

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The city board of trustees met in the city hall last Monday night in adjourned session.

Ordinance No. 76, providing that the county be given permission to use portions of San Bruno road and Baden and Linden avenues for the new bay shore county road, was adopted, upon motion of Trustee Holston, seconded by Trustee Kelley.

Upon motion of Trustee Kelley, seconded by Trustee McGovern, a resolution defining the curb lines, elevations and grades of Linden avenue, from Miller to Armour avenues, was adopted.

A resolution accepting plans and specifications for the improvement of Linden avenue, at an estimated cost of $15,800, was adopted.

Resolution of Intention, No. 9, to improve Linden avenue, from Miller to Armour avenues, with a two-inch asphalt concrete surface and a four-inch concrete base, was adopted, upon motion of Trustee McGovern, seconded by Trustee Holston.

Trustee McGovern suggested that new artificial stone sidewalks be laid on both sides of Grand avenue, from Maple avenue to Division street. The sidewalks on that portion of Grand avenue are of different heights and two or three widths.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY BULKHEAD LINE

At a meeting of the Tri-County Organization, composed of delegates from San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, held last week, a resolution was adopted requesting the War Department to establish bulkhead lines on the west shore of San Francisco bay. The subject of the resolution was submitted to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, San Mateo County Development Association and San Jose Chamber of Commerce and approved. The data and argument for the proposition have been prepared and sent to the War Department to be acted upon. The matter will be forcefully urged by the representatives of the three Peninsula counties, as it is of great importance in view of the recent tide land decision.

Judge Sargent has overruled the demurrer in the case of the People of the State of California against the Spring Valley Water Company so that the case will soon go to trial. Some time ago District Attorney Franklin Swart filed a complaint against the company asking the court to direct it to remove the flumes on the highway in San Bruno and South San Francisco. The company demurred to the complaint, contending that the county had no authority to compel it to remove the flumes in view of the fact that it had a franchise through the first township to lay its pipes. Mr. Swart held that the county had the right and his contention was upheld by Judge Sargent, at least the court pronounced the complaint a true and valid one. The company will soon file its answer and the case will shortly come to trial.

FRATERNAL ORDERS

(BY HARRY EDWARDS.)

That there is an endless chain of influences created and set in motion to the profit of the community is evidenced by the various references to the fraternal column of The Enterprise. The thoughts expressed have aided others working on the same lines, and thus an endless chain exists. Many have been benefited and the seed sown will bring forth fruit. Friendship is the sunshine of our being, which warms and expands the heart, that gives us incentive to do our best, and to make the most of ourselves, and is the foundation of whatever success we may achieve in a fraternal way.

The various orders, recently installed into office men who have promised to sacrifice all personal aims for the common good. That they will be faithful to the trust reposed in them, that the tongue shall speak the words of harmony, and that in every act and thought they will dispense the perfume of fraternity. We expect much from these new officers. They also have a right to receive from the members of the various fraternities the best we have, the best we can give. By force of character and achievement they have become our leaders. Having earned promotion, it becomes us to follow the leader. When he calls, it is for us to respond. So will we be led to a higher plane of usefulness, an increase of membership, in our Tribe, Aerie, Camp and Lodge—will certainly follow.

It might be well to state that the F. O. E. is offering special inducements to members bringing in the largest number of candidates. The L. O. O. M. is opening its charter February 1st for a period of ninety days, and will undoubtedly obtain a large increase in membership. The U. A. O. D. is initiating members at every Grove session. The W. O. W. is holding its own, while the Women of Woodcraft is increasing in numbers. The Foresters are doing well, but you have to hand it to Tippecanoe Tribe, Imp. O. R. M., when it comes to actual increase according to membership. They are live ones, and are striving hard to head the list of organizations along the line lines of fraternal endeavor.

The Fraternal Brotherhood.

On January 23, 1914, South San Francisco Lodge No. 850, The Fraternal Brotherhood, held its semi-annual installation of officers.

The following officers were installed by the district manager, Bro. Banbury, to serve for the ensuing term: Past president, Mary F. Bohn; president, W. C. Schneider; vice-president, Wm. Veit; secretary, Leon DeLange; treasurer, A. A. Whitten; inner doorkeeper, Latitia Cherry; outer doorkeeper, Chas. Mercks. Refreshments were served after the close of Lodge, and a good time enjoyed by everyone present.

Upon complaint of Poundmaster Quinn, A. Galli was brought before Recorder Rehberg Friday morning on a charge of resisting an officer in the discharge of his duties. Quinn impounded four horses belonging to Galli and the latter refused to pay the poundmaster's fees. He was ordered to pay the fees and fined $5.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

The work of remodeling the old Pacific Jupiter Steel Co.'s plant to accommodate the American Marble and Mosaic Works is progressing rapidly. The structural iron work is being painted.

E. W. Florence, manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for San Mateo county, was in town Wednesday. His arm, which was broken while cranking his machine a short time ago, is knitting rapidly.

Thursday evening Modesto Bollini, Julie Prefelli and Bruno Renocchi appeared before Recorder Rehberg and answered to the charge of disturbing the peace. They were given a reprimand and fined ten dollars each.

A. B. Cavanaugh, a local contractor, and associates are preparing to build several modern bungalows in this city during this year. They have two contracted for that are to be completed by April 1st. All the proposed bungalows will be strictly up-to-date.

Juvenile Officer M. Sheehan came to this city from San Mateo Tuesday to take into custody a young boy named Everett Foster. It is claimed that the boy is incorrigible and will not attend school regularly. He will be taken before Judge Buck for hearing.

The passage under the railroad tracks at Holy Cross Cemetery was cleared of the sand which drifted onto the tracks of the local street car line last Wednesday afternoon. As soon as the passage was clear cars from the Geneva barn were run to this city and the one car which received so much use was relieved.

Upon complaint, Juvenile Officer Sheehan investigated the condition of the Martinelli children in the northern part of town. The mother recently died and the six small children were left by their father to look after themselves. Not having anyone to take care of them, their condition and the condition of the house became very unsanitary. The eldest son is working at one of the factories and with his father will contribute to the support of the minors who will be placed in a home together.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of supervisors met in Redwood City last Monday in adjourned session.

It was moved by Casey that the plans and specifications for the county road leading from San Bruno to the northerly limits of South San Francisco, which has been prepared by the county surveyor, be referred to the district attorney, the advisory committee, the consulting engineer and the county surveyor before being adopted. The motion was seconded by Blackburn and carried.

A resolution was presented by District Attorney Swart directing the Treasurer to set apart out of the General fund $14,389.50 for the payment of nonconsenting land owners for rights of way for the road leading from Colma to San Pedro, in accordance with the report of the viewers of said road filed January 5th, the money to be paid as follows: P. Rosaia $1000, M. M. Zanone $7000, J. A. Hooper et al. $2000, R. S. Thornton $1500, J. J. Carroll $500, A. Doane $889.50, Burk estate $300.

The resolution was adopted on motion of Casey, seconded by Francis, it being the understanding that if the board's offer is not accepted by the land owners the district attorney is to commence suit to condemn the right of way.

The following communication was received from County Surveyor Neuman:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors—Gentlemen: I find that through the opinion rendered by the district attorney and corroborated by the attorney general, that it will be impossible for me to obtain additional compensation that was allowed me by your board, either for the obtaining of rights of way

RAINFALL.

The amount of rainfall in this city for the past week is 1.87 inches. There was no rainfall during the same week last year. The amount for this month is 12.20 inches, for the same month a year ago 4.24 inches. The seasonal amount up to date is 21.92 inches as against 7.88 inches for 1913.

for any other duty, and without this additional pay I find it impossible to get along financially and hold the office of County Surveyor with the duties that are imposed at the present time.

I have carried on this highway work for the past two and one-half years, giving considerably more time than the office hours call for and at a financial loss.

I am therefore compelled to ask you to accept this, my resignation, and which I ask to take effect on February 15, 1914.

Respectfully submitted,

J. V. NEUMAN,

The district attorney stated that he had been asked by the auditor for a legal opinion regarding the extra salary of $150 per month heretofore granted to Mr. Neuman by the board, and had advised the auditor that such payment was not permitted by law. In this opinion the attorney general has concurred.

The district attorney further stated that the matter of giving the surveyor extra salary had been called to the attention of the grand jury and that body had advised that the surveyor be sued for the return of the money already paid to him amounting to $650.

After some further discussion of the matter the surveyor's resignation was laid over until the next meeting, the board hoping that a way be found out of the difficulty.

Wanted—A good piano player. For further particulars, inquire at Amuz Theater any evening. Advt.

Holidays With Parents.

LADY DECIES AND HER ELDER DAUGHTER.

All the world and his wife remember the marriage three years ago of Miss Vivian Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, to Lord Decies of England.

The bride at the time was exceptionally young, rich and one of the cleverest amateur dancers in the country. Indeed, if necessary, milady could earn a handsome living by "tripping the light fantastic." Well, Lady Decies, with her husband, Lord Decies, and her older daughter, Eileen, are now in this country visiting Lady Decies' parents.

The Decies family came over from England for the Christmas holidays, and right royal was the fun and frolic during their stay at Georgian Court, Mr. Gould's magnificent estate at Lakewood, N. J.

Lady Decies is a great social favorite in the smart London set and is one of the most successful hostesses among the young matrons.

Teacher Seeks Eugenic Mate.

Latest of the candidates to "offer herself upon the altar of matrimony for the betterment of the race" in a eugenics marriage is Miss Clara Macy, a school teacher of New City, Nev.

She has some ideas of her own regarding what a eugenics husband should be, however, which she thinks even the Medical Review of Reviews, which proposes to mate a perfect man and a perfect woman, might overlook. At least she has sent a list of qualifications upon which she will insist, as follows:

"He must not use liquor, opiates or tobacco in any form. He must be courteous and thoughtful to others. He must be a clean man in thought and in language and must be immaculate about his person.

"I don't care about his looks as long as he is clean about his person and is not deformed in any way.

"Do you think that I expect too much? I know myself and am confident that I am a fit mate for such a man."

In her letter Miss Macy says: "I am twenty-nine years old and am five and a half feet tall. I weigh 175 pounds. I call my hair red because I don't want to be accused of bragging, but the rest of the folks assure me it is auburn.

"My eyes are hazel (green, you know, with some brown and gray). A young man who taught in our school some years ago was foolish enough to write some poetry about them.

"My health is excellent, and I feel sure that I would make a fit mate for some fine, red blooded man. In the interests of science and for the betterment of the race I am willing to unite and live in eugenic wedlock."

The Crinkle Crape Bride.

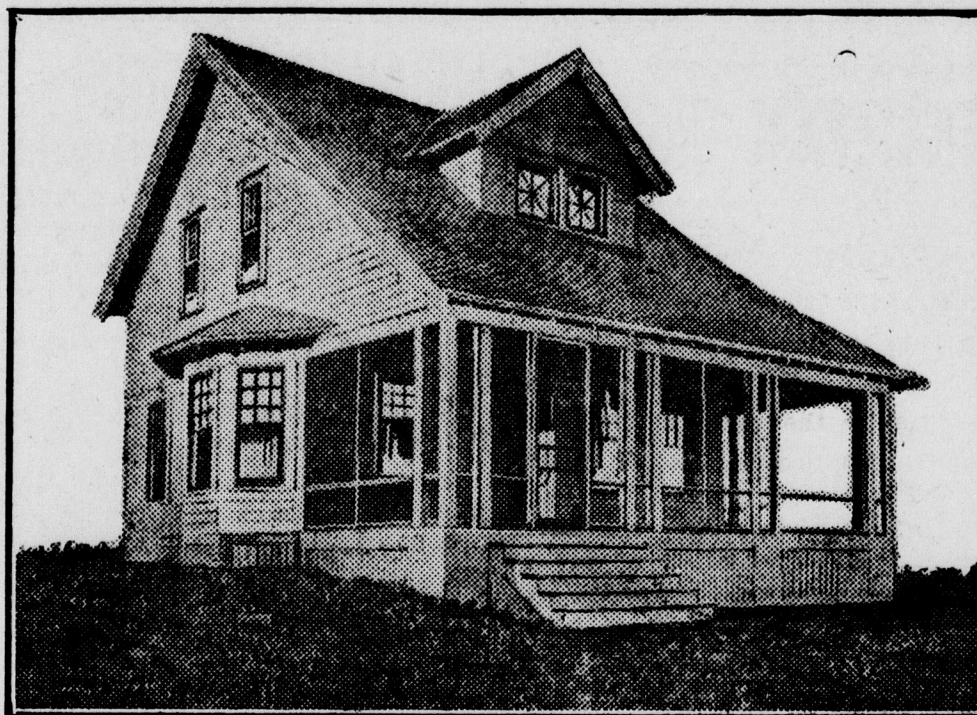

A girl who is courageously preparing to face comparative poverty with the "dearest fellow in the world" is making all of her lingerie in white cotton crinkle crape, because she knows that for several years at least she'll have to do her own washing. Please don't imagine that this bride's undergarments are anything like the atrocities marked "a bargain—59 cents each."

They are lovely, dainty white combinations—petticoats, nightdresses and negligees—handmade and cut from the latest French patterns. Some of the sets are finished about the neck, front and sleeves with white lingerie beading, through which narrow ribbons may be run; others are edged with hand embroidered scallops, and several are trimmed with narrow cluny, the one sort of imitation lace which washes well and doesn't look cheap on underwear.

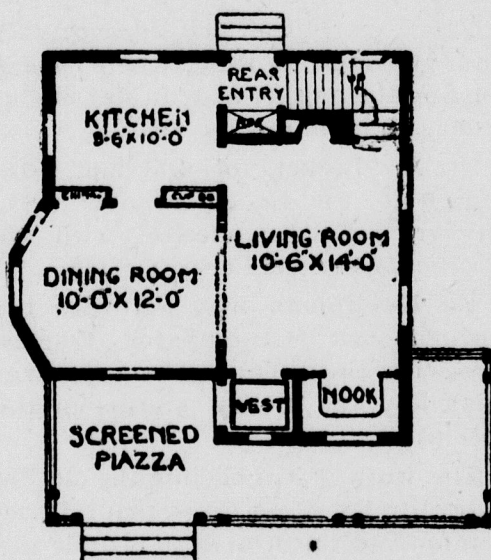

This girl has made her boudoir set, so called—although the nearest she'll come to owning a boudoir for years to come will be a bedroom in a small flat—of white crinkle crape. It consists of

DESIGN FOR LAKESIDE COTTAGE.

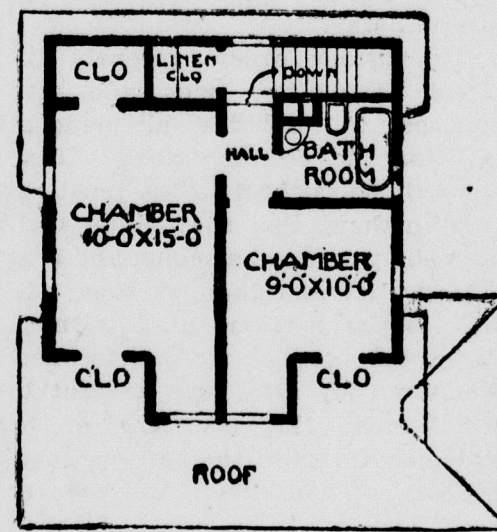

Design 769, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Home designed for a site in the country or a suburban neighborhood where there is ample room and a broad outlook. The front elevation is well adapted for a sloping plot. At comparatively small expense the roomy porch, which would naturally be screened in in summer, could be provided with adjustable sash and used as a sun room in winter if given the proper exposure. The extension of the porch around the side of the living room can be made large enough to serve as a sleeping porch in winter. The sleeping porch is a popular feature in up to date designs, even for cold climates.

This plan is suitable for a lakeside cottage. The house can be built sealed up on the inside and set on a base foundation for $1,200, or it can be finished up complete, plastered and made a year round home for $1,650. The floor plan is simple—large living room and a dining room, with bay window across the end. Birch or maple floors throughout. Birch or oak finish in first story, pine to paint in second story. Size, 22 feet wide and 24 feet deep over the main part. First story, 8 feet 6 inches; second story, 8 feet. Second story is well supplied with closets.

a spread for the dressing table, a cover for the sewing machine, a square pillow for the lounge, a pair of sash curtains and a bedspread to match the lingerie outfit, and it will always look fresh because she can wash it with her own hands.

BUSSORAH A FILTHY TOWN.

A Visit to the Apocryphal Home of Sindbad the Sailor.

We were on our way to Bussorah, famous as the apocryphal home of Sindbad the Sailor. Bussorah is the seaport of Bagdad, from which it is distant about 500 miles by river.

Bussorah in the summer is nothing less than a fiery furnace, for the thermometer registers more than 100 degrees F. in the shade during 120 consecutive days, and the mean temperature, night and day, for upwards of four months, is about 95 degrees.

Malarial fevers, dysentery and ague are prevalent, and the town is frequently visited by plague and cholera, and yet, thanks to the cool winter and prevailing north winds, the place is not essentially unhealthy for those who are acclimated.

The habits and wants of the population are simple and are likely to remain so for some time to come, but the sanitary state of the town is deplorable. The creeks, which are tidal, supply it with drinking water, but are used indiscriminately for all household purposes, and the stench arising from them at low water is overpowering.

The governor general of the province of Bussorah had his private residence in the upper story of a flimsy lath and plaster edifice overlooking the main road. The walls of his house could not have been more than six inches thick, and it was full of windows. The ground floor seemed to be a stable and was occupied by goats.

As our carriage approached, churning up the mud which lay ankle deep and bumping over the hollows and obstructions which had so far escaped the attention of a not too observant municipality, we saw the governor's head appear at an upper window and that of a she goat at a lower one simultaneously.

The governor, a middle aged man of dignified bearing, greeted us gravely and kindly. From his conversation he appeared to be somewhat of a pedant, imbued with the chauvinistic tendencies of the young Turk, and a hardened bureaucrat.

His excellency's salutations as he bade us farewell were expressed with becoming gravity: "We trust that God may be pleased to preserve your excellency's health. Our town is yours, as well as our house. May we order our soldiers to accompany you on your ride to Zobeir? Your person is more precious to us than our eyes, and there are evil men, enemies of our lord the sultan, abroad in the desert."—Chambers' Journal.

Opposite Opinions.

If Marie Corelli has a large circle of readers who admire her books, there is also a number of people who do not. Two men belonging to the opposing camps, both well known journalists, were discussing her the other day.

"What I like about Miss Corelli," said the one who admired the authoress, "is that she is so—so alive!"

"Yes, that's what I object to!" retorted the other.—London Spectator.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the city of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

Owing to the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, South San Francisco will soon have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller & Co. Paint Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, the Pacific Coast Steel Company, the Pacific Car and Equipment Company, the Standard Corrugated Pipe Works, and other enterprises, all of which are in operation to-day. The Meese Gottfried Machinery Company and the Enterprise Foundry of San Francisco have each recently made purchases of land, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

COUNTY DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION NEWS

Motion pictures, which will depict the beauties of our country, are to be distributed by the San Mateo County Development Association which has arranged to take one thousand feet of local views.

The contract for this San Mateo reel has been let to the California Motion Picture Corporation, which is composed principally of Hillsborough and Menlo Park capitalists. The company's president, Mr. Herbert Payne, has promised to furnish the association with a wonderful film regardless of cost in view of the fact that he is a peninsula resident and desires to take this opportunity to boost his home community.

The San Mateo pictures are to have a range that, besides showing the section's numerous resources and attractions, will give delightful variety of entertainment to the spectator.

Manufactories, scenic wonders, gardens, magnificent homes, fashionable club houses, beautiful drives and out of door sporting events are to be among the subjects shown.

San Mateo county boasts some of the most famous country estates in California and the most prominent of these will be incorporated in the reel.

Among the athletic sports, for which the county is justly celebrated and which will be filmed for the screen, are polo and golf. Because the county is noted as one of the most popular of society's Meccas, the forthcoming motion pictures will have a special interest for the smart set of Northern California.

The Development Association expects to give the reel a wide circulation throughout the country and intends to feature it at all conventions and similar gatherings of consequence. Since the pictures will be typical of Northern California, as well as San Mateo county, the film is sure to carry an interest that will always make it a desirable attraction whenever shown.

The producing company has put its most expert director in charge of the work of outlining the subjects, and promises that the results will set a new standard of production for California motion picture photography. The firm declares that one of the very best camera men that ever came to the State will take the pictures and only the most perfect photography producible will be allowed to leave the laboratories. The pictures will be taken by a Bell and Howell camera which is recognized as the best and most expensive by far on the market.

It is planned to secure the pictures at different seasons of the year, thus showing the county, its scenery, industries and vegetation in all phases.

COUNTY NOTES

J. J. McGrath, a prominent and popular resident of San Mateo announces himself as a candidate for the assembly on the Democratic ticket in the coming election.

Auditor Underhill signed the warrants last Wednesday which authorized the payment of the members of the late Grand Jury. Mr. Underhill states that he had not refused to pass the claims but was desirous of protecting himself should the courts decide that a jury composed of women is illegal. He is now satisfied that he is safe. The warrants aggregate $1500. Treasurer Chamberlain will not hesitate to cash the warrants.

L. E. Fuller, former manager of the San Mateo County Development Association, and publicity man of the recent California Land Show at San Francisco, has been selected by General Manager Edward H. Brown as secretary of the Sacramento Valley Development Association to succeed O. H. Miller. Fuller who is at present living at San Mateo, has had experience in development work. He made a thorough canvass of the district with Brown in the interest of the San Francisco Land Show. He will assume his new duties February 1st.

COMPLIMENTARY TO JOS. H. NASH

The report of the late Grand Jury filed recently with Judge Buck, had the following to say regarding the office of the county clerk:

"The office of the county clerk probably has more details than any other office within your county as this office has to act as clerk of the board of supervisors, clerk of the superior court and has charge of naturalizations, hunting licenses, registrations and the holding of all county elections."

The report goes on to state that several recommendations of the previous grand jury had been carried out by Clerk Nash, adding much to the efficiency of his office.

Fees to the amount of $4904.93 were collected during the year 1913, which is a remarkable showing considering the fact that while the clerk's office is not a fee office, thousands of pages of recording have been done for which no fee can be collected.

When the above amount is compared with the fees collected in 1909, amounting to $3372, one has some idea of the great increase of business in the clerk's office.

The report states that but few clerical errors were found by the expert and that the work of the office was well in hand which was not the finding last year. Clerk Nash made a change in his office force early last spring to which he attributes its improved conditions.

Judge Buck, in speaking of the county clerk's good work, expressed himself as follows:

"The people of this county are to be congratulated on having men of the Joe Nash type in office. He has proven himself capable, honest and fearless and is always to be found at his post of duty."

THE RAZORBACK HOG.

Here's His Portrait, and It Doesn't Flatter Him a Bit.

In physique and mentality the razorback differs even more from a domestic hog than a wild goose does from a tame one. Shaped in front like a thin wedge, he can go through laurel thickets like a bear. Armored with tough hide, cushioned by bristles, he despises thorns, brambles and rattlesnakes alike. His extravagantly long snout can scent like a cat's and yet burrow, uproot, overturn, as if made of metal.

The long legs, thin flanks, pliant hoofs, fit him to run like a deer and climb like a goat. In courage and sagacity he outranks all other beasts. A warrior born, he is also a strategist of the first order. Like man, he lives a communal life and unites with others of his kind for purposes of defense.

The pig is the only large mammal I know of, besides man, whose eyes will not shine by reflected light—they are too bold and crafty, I wit. The razorback has a mind of his own—not instinct, but mind—whatever psychologists may say. He thinks. Anybody can see that when he is not rooting or sleeping he is studying devilment.

He shows remarkable understanding of human speech, especially profane speech, and even an uncanny gift of reading men's thoughts whenever those thoughts are directed against the peace and dignity of pigship. He bears grudges, broods over indignities and plans redresses for the morrow or the week after. If he cannot get even with you he will lay for your unsuspecting friend. And at last, when arrested in his crime and lodged in the pen, he is liable to attacks of mania from sheer helplessness rage.—From Horace Kephart's "Our Southern Highlanders."

A Little Boy's Wish.

Wish I didn't have to go to bed
When Santa Claus is going to come.
I think pa and ma sits up all night,
And they're the ones that has the most fun.

Old Santa Claus must be skeery, some,
If he lets children drive him away.
I would like to mount upon his back.
'Twould be fun with him to romp and play.

Pr'aps he'd take me in his reindeer sleigh
And give me a long and joyous ride.
And as we sped, oh, far, far away
I'd feel like some pumpkins by his side.

Maybe, now, he has an air-o-plane.
That would take us up so very high
That we could see what little boys do
That live away up in the blue sky.
I wonder if they have Christmas, too,
And if it can be one bit more fair.
I asked my pa and ma if they knew,
And ma said, "It is always Christmas there."

Pr'aps I can go by myself some time.
If I really learn to find the way.
And every day Christmas would be fine.
I'd like a year for a Christmas day.

Dangers in Rare Beefsteak.

You may like your beefsteak rare, but there is danger in eating any meat not well cooked. Measles in cows leave boxed up parasites in the bovine flesh. You do not notice them with the naked eye, but they are there, and if they are not killed by thorough cooking they will cause tapeworms in the digestive organization of the human system, and then follow associated diseases and discomforts.—Farm and Fireside.

It Was All Within.

A practical joker carried an onion in his pocket to the depot when bidding farewell to a young lady and took a bite now and then to induce tears. Before the train departed he had eaten the entire onion. The young lady, perceiving the situation, remarked, "Ah, you have swallowed your grief!"

Endeavor to be patient in bearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of what sort soever they be, for that thyself also hast many failings which must be borne with by others.—Thomas a Kempis.

The Economist.

"It isn't by petty and ridiculous economies that men succeed," said John D. Rockefeller, Jr. "Some people seem to think that to get rich one must economize like Blanco. Blanco's faithful old dog had turned sickly and savage, and so Blanco said to his wife on arriving home from business Saturday evening:

"I'll shoot Towser tomorrow morning before church."

"Blanco paused, then added sternly: 'So remember, please, that he won't need any breakfast.'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WESTERN UNION JOINS MARCONI WIRELESS

Rate War Planned on the Postal Cable Company

Announcement was made in San Francisco a few days ago of a working arrangement having been effected between the Marconi Wireless Company of America and the Western Union Telegraph Company. It is conceded to be the most important deal that has been negotiated in the telegraph, telephone and cable business in the history of the United States.

Coming so close upon the arrangement recently arrived at between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Federal Government at Washington, whereby the Bell Telephone Company agreed to divorce itself from the Western Union, thereby giving rise to deep self-congratulation on the part of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, it is expected to create a sensation.

The big outstanding feature of the new arrangement is the rate fight foreshadowed between the Marconi wireless and Western Union on one side and the Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable Company on the other. Within the next few months a complete transatlantic and transpacific wireless service will be inaugurated, and by linking up with the Western Union Telegraph lines will effect an entirely new telegraph and transoceanic service across both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and the American continent. It will also extend from Alaska to Cape Horn.

The new service will be initiated with a 33-1-3 per cent reduction over the existing cable rates.

Every Western Union office will be a Marconi wireless office, and the transpacific wireless service will be operated in connection with the Western Union.

The arrangement still existing between the Western Union and the Bell Telephone Company makes it possible for a patron to telephone his cables to St. Petersburg.

Declaring that when a man is sentenced to the penitentiary he gets a vacation, in many instances, while his wife and children get the punishment, Judge Monroe of Los Angeles, after a conference with other Superior Judges, decided to turn L. A. Houseman, a convicted burglar and forger, over to the county, instead of sending him to prison. While in the custody of the county for two years Houseman will work on public roads, and the County Treasurer, under Court order, will turn over his pay, $1.50 per day, to Houseman's wife and two children.

Regulations issued recently prohibiting the importation of potatoes from Canada and Europe, to guard against the introduction of potato diseases, have been modified by the Federal Horticultural Board. The previous order, which would have required countries not affected by the quarantine, including Bermuda, to take extensive quarantine action against all other countries under quarantine by the United States, is changed so that they are given the alternative of forbidding the importation to this country of potatoes not home grown.

That the Federal Government intends to proceed with its suit to "divorce" the Southern Pacific from the Central Pacific, in spite of protests which have gone forward to Washington from all the commercial bodies of the State, was the word received by various California commercial bodies from Attorney General McReynolds. "The two roads constitute a combination in restraint of trade, and there is nothing for the Government to do but to bring suit," is the gist of the reply of the Attorney General.

MINISTERS' SONS DO MAKE GOOD

Pastor Gives Interesting Statistics to Refute Old Slander.

That old slander about ministers' sons and daughters turning out bad has been refuted by arguments of plain facts and genealogical statistics by Rev. Robert Hugh Morris in a sermon in Central North Broad Street Presbyterian Church.

"The last edition of 'Who's Who in America,'" said Rev. Mr. Morris, "gives 26,885 names of noted Americans. Of these, 3,413 are clergymen, and at least 1,185 are ministers' sons, a total of 4,598, or 17 per cent.

"Of the fifty-one names in the National Hall of Fame, twelve are from ministers' homes: Roger Williams, Jonathan Edwards, William Ellery Channing, Emerson, Holmes, Henry Clay, Agassiz, Bancroft, Beecher, Stowe, Lowell and Phillips Brooks, being fifty times more than the proportion of other families measured up to the standard.

"Of our twenty-seven Presidents, three were ministers' sons: Arthur, Cleveland and Wilson. The wives of five were ministers' daughters: Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. Millard Fillmore, Mrs. Franklin Pierce, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson."

Freak Societies.

Germany is said to hold the record for societies with extraordinary objects. One of these is entitled "Society For Promoting Good Manners Among the Poor," while another unites in the bonds of fellowship all Germans wearing pointed beards. A curious association is that of ex-lunatics, detention for six months in an asylum being the qualification for membership. As illustrating the craze for associations in Germany it may be mentioned that in the little town of Wildau, with only 2,000 inhabitants, there are twenty-two societies.—London Standard.

Professor Otto Edler Von Graeve, president of the International Divining Rod Association, arrived in New York on the George Washington. The Professor brought his rods with him. Some are for locating gold and silver, some for water, some for iron and the latest of all is for radium. Professor Von Graeve says the occupation of finding subterranean waters, metals and oil is nerve racking. When he starts in searching for buried treasure he says his pulse is seventy-five, and when his nerves begin to vibrate it goes up to 120 and stays there until the rod does its work. The Professor says he has discovered oil in Roumania and gold in Africa and that he is under contract to find radium in the West.

BUMPER CROP OF CITRUS FRUITS

Shipment of California Oranges Placed at 40,000 Carloads

After three years of disappointments, Pacific Coast citrus fruit growers this year have produced a bumper crop, according to a statement made by E. O. McCormick, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railroad. This year's crop of oranges alone, according to McCormick, will be sufficient to provide at least fifteen oranges for every person in the United States.

Estimates at present place the California shipments at 40,000 cars, more than double that of a year ago and more than has been sent East in any year in the life of the industry. The 40,000 cars would average 400 boxes each, and every box would contain between 90 and 100 oranges, making approximately a billion and a half of oranges shipped.

"For three years there has been a shortage of rain and snow in California," McCormick said. "This year the rains came early and regularly. The mountains are filled with snow and a big crop is assured."

TERSE CALIFORNIA NEWS

According to officers of the society, there are several horses being used that are totally blind. This is the first time in the society's history that it has made a campaign along these lines.

Representative Knowland, in response to the requests of a large number of California commercial organizations, has secured a ruling from the third assistant Postmaster General that dried fruits, cured fruits and nuts may be sent by parcel post under seal in the manner provided for mailing tobacco, soaps and similar merchandise.

Fire originating from crossed electric wires partly destroyed the Bank of Sausalito building. The loss, represented principally by fixtures in the bank and in the office of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, adjoining, is estimated at $2500. The blaze was not discovered until two hours after it started. Lack of combustible material accounts for the small loss.

Superintendent of Schools A. C. Barker of Oakland will receive a consignment of 2000 textbooks from State Printer Richardson. The books are being shipped to replace those destroyed in the fire which burned the Clawson school to the ground last week. This is the first loss of books distributed under the new State law. Provision has already been made by Barker to send the children formerly pupils of the Clawson school to other schools.

Senator Perkins' bill authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to contract with the Union Iron Works of San Francisco for a temporary Navy drydock at Hunter's Point has passed the Senate. The Government will agree to pay the Union Iron Works dockage charges for naval vessels of not less than $50,000 per annum for six years from date of the contract, and in return for this contract the Union Iron Works will construct a dock large enough to float the largest warship that can pass through the Panama Canal. The bill will now go to the House Naval Affairs Committee and be incorporated in the Navy appropriation bill.

Anna Held, the actress, is a claimant for the estate left by Cherry de St. Maurice, former queen of Sacramento's tenderloin, who was murdered for her jewels on the morning of July 8th. Miss Held said: "Miss de St. Maurice was my father's sister. I met her in San Francisco, where she introduced herself, and I at once noted the resemblance to my father, especially in the blue eyes." No will was found among the effects of the murdered woman and the estate escheats to the State, but Attorney Charles F. Hanlon is endeavoring to secure the money for Miss Held. According to a statement by Hanlon, the amount expected by his client is $60,000.

Officials of Mills College will petition the Board of Education to have the new Chabot Observatory, to be built to house the monster new telescope recently purchased, erected on the seminary grounds. The matter was discussed at a recent meeting of the trustees of the institution. They claim that the college grounds afford an ideal location for the new building. Professor Charles Burckhalter, who has charge of Chabot Observatory, declared that the new building must be erected on a spot where the glare of the street and other lights of the city will not interfere with his work at night. Mills College is far enough away from the center of the city that this objectionable feature would be done away with.

The capture of Zollie Clements, triple murderer, and James Case, life prisoners, known as the most desperate in Folsom prison, by Guard J. P. Carlin, as they were about to overcome him and seize his shotgun, frustrated what might have been the most costly prison break in the history of the penitentiary. The men had escaped from their cells, gained the roof of the cell house and were crawling toward the guard before his alert action resulted in their capture. By the aid of a key made from a tobacco can, Case, who has been kept in a barred cell since last August for observation as to his sanity, reached through the bars and unlocked his cell door. Owing to the heavy storm, a belt had broken in the power house and the lights were out all through the prison, thus giving the men the opportunity they had awaited.

John H. Grondin, a druggist, has been arrested in Los Angeles on a charge of having poisoned his wife, Zelia Grondin, who died October 30, 1913, and who was declared by a Coroner's jury to have killed herself by inhaling gas. The arrest followed a long investigation by city and county detectives, whose suspicions were aroused, they said, by Grondin's alleged attentions to the widow of a wealthy merchant of Waterville, Mo., who arrived shortly after the death of Mrs. Grondin. Grondin produced at the inquest a note which he said had been written by his wife, but which handwriting experts later declared a forgery. In the note were the statements that she had betrayed her husband and the hope that he would be "happy with the woman who truly loved him." Pathologists made their final report on their examination of the body, which was exhumed, stating that they had found poison in the vital organs.

IMPORTANT FOREIGN NEWS

The extraordinary cold weather experienced in Paris during the last four weeks and which shows no sign of abating, has caused the price of food in Paris to rise from 50 to 60 per cent above the ordinary. Potatoes are nearly double their usual value, while fresh vegetables cost from four to six times regular prices. Old inhabitants recall the siege prices. Railway communication is interrupted by snow, which is from two to four feet deep in some places. In Central and Southern France the temperature ranges from ten to twenty degrees below freezing. The cold is so intense in Northern France that the harbors are gradually closing. Temperatures ranging from 25 to 28 degrees below freezing were recorded at various points and the inside basin of Dieppe harbor was entirely covered with thick ice.

With 2000 tons of merchandise, approximately 25 per cent of her cargo, destroyed by fire, the steamer Santa Cecilia from New York put into port at San Pedro for survey by marine underwriters. The fire was discovered just after Christmas and Captain Anderson, commanding the steamer, halted at Talcahuano, a South American port, for four days while he and his crew fought the flames. The fire was conquered January 1st, and the Santa Cecilia, which left New York for San Francisco November 30th, continued her voyage. Representatives of the underwriters ordered the vessel to continue on to San Francisco before unloading the damaged cargo.

The Last Straw.

There is a trusty of a penitentiary in Nevada who says his name is Woodrow Wilson. He is a mechanic and drives the warden's machine.

Recently the warden, who is ex-Governor Dickerson; Governor Oddie and

"WHAT'S YOUR NAME?"

As the trusty was cranking up the officer asked him:

The Fugitive Ideal.

As some most pure and noble face Seen in the thronged and hurrying street

Sheds o'er the world a sudden grace, A flying odor sweet,

Then, passing, leaves the cheated sense Basked with a phantom excellence,

So on our soul the visions rise Of that fair life we never led—

They flash a splendor past our eyes; We start, and they are fled.

They pass and leave us with blank gaze, Resigned to our ignoble days.

Too Many Trombones.

The following anecdote concerning Donizetti and the score of Rossini's

"Otello" is worth repeating.

Donizetti had asked Sigismondi, the director of the Naples conservatory, to look over the score with him, and the two sat down at a table with the work in front of them. Presently Sigismondi began to rave about its "monstrous orchestration." Terrible was his indignation when he found that clarinets, bassoons and trombones had been employed in one place to swell a crescendo, but when the fortissimo was reached he uttered a cry of despair, struck the score violently with his fist, upset the table and rushed from the room, exclaiming: "A hundred and twenty-three trombones! A hundred and twenty-three trombones!" Donizetti in vain tried to call him back, shouting after him, "Not 123 trombones, but first, second and third trombones!" Sigismondi would not listen and when last seen was still repeating,

"A hundred and twenty-three trombones!"

Wit in a Pinch.

A cadet officer in the Pennsylvania Military college was reported by a faculty officer for "language," rather a severe mark in that austere institution.

At the time appointed for the hearing of "explanations" of marks the offending cadet presented himself before the commandant.

"Well, sir, how did it happen that you were guilty of using improper language while on duty?" the colonel inquired.

"Why, sir, as officer of the day I was inspecting the guard. In handling one of the rifles the lock snapped shut on my finger, and it just naturally pinched

'hell' out of me."

Not only was the mark "taken off," but the colonel gleefully reported to the entire corps the cadet officer's witty explanation of his offense.—Lippincott's.

ORDINANCE NO 76

An ordinance permitting the use of certain portions of San Bruno Road, a certain portion of Baden Avenue and a certain portion of Linden Avenue included within the corporate limits of the City of South San Francisco, by the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo for the purpose of constructing and maintaining thereon a highway or boulevard, as a part of the State or County System of Roads.

The Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco do ordain as follows:

Section 1. Incognito

The Story of a Royal Marriage

By MAY C. ETHERIDGE

"I am tired," said Prince Adolf, "of having people gaze at me whenever I appear."

"Your royal highness," said an equerry, entering, "a man has been brought to the palace by the police charged with personating you, the prince. He resembles you so closely that those who arrested him cannot be certain whether he is or is not an impostor. What orders shall I give as to his disposition?"

"Is he much like me?"

"So nearly that had he not been poorly dressed I, who am in constant attendance upon your highness, could not tell him from you."

"Bring him to me."

The equerry disappeared and in a few minutes entered, conducting the man in question. The prince started at the marvelous resemblance to himself.

"Why have you personated me?" asked the prince.

"For fun, your highness."

"How would you like to personate me for a consideration?"

"I am at your royal highness' service."

The prince made a deal by which this man, Shuster, was to personate

"HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO PERSONATE ME?"

him till the moment he should meet his bride. The prince wished to do some shopping, and it was arranged that, while dressed as a commoner and with his hat pulled down over his eyes, he should enter a store by one door while Shuster, as the true prince, should enter by another.

So the next morning at the usual hour of the prince's going forth Shuster was driven through the usual crowd of loiterers at the palace gate, all of whom took off their hats, the salute being gracefully acknowledged by Shuster. The prince, looking down from an upper window, saw the exit.

Leaving the palace by a rear exit, the prince took a shorter route to the first shop he intended to visit and reached it just in time to see his spurious self alight from his carriage, the footman open the door and Shuster pass through a small gathering who, recognizing the prince's livery, had run to the spot to catch a glimpse of him. Then the prince did his shopping in another part of the store, though he found it difficult to secure attention, so eager were the clerks to see his royal highness.

The prince was much relieved and pleased at being able to buy a pair of stockings or a necktie without having a crowd about him, kept back in some instances by the police. He wrote his fiancée of his ruse and that he would arrive incognito, his personator coming in state. The princess was caught by the device and wished that she might herself be personated in the same way. She at once sent her favorite attendant out to search for a young woman who resembled her. The woman spent a week on the street, in shops, at evening entertainments, and at last found a young lady who sufficiently resembled her mistress to warrant an attempt to pass her for the princess. The lady was commanded to go to the palace. She expressed some surprise and at first refused, but changed her mind.

When the princess saw the person who was to represent her she was much pleased, not so much at the resemblance as the carriage, for the lady had the bearing of one of high degree. Some difficulty was met with to induce her to act the part of princess, but at last she consented and began her official duties in personating the princess on a shopping tour, as Shuster had personated the prince.

The marriage between Prince Adolf and the Princess Wilhelmina was a state marriage and had nothing to do upon her and what an extraordinary coincidence, the queen and the prince meeting under such circumstances! But what excited the wrath of her father, the king, was that two kingdoms being near his own would now be united under one sovereign, the two together being far stronger than he was himself.

Soon after his marriage Prince Adolf sent a deputation to the lady to whom he had been betrothed to offer an humble apology. They said that after informing her that he would be represented by another he had been seized with a desire to win her love in that way, but her adoption of a similar plan as his own had placed him under an influence that he had been unable to resist.

with love. Indeed, the two had met but once—when the marriage contract was signed. But this made but little difference so far as the prince's arrival and the wedding were concerned. According to the arrangements, when a carriage drove up to the palace where dwelt the princess amid salvos of artillery he was received by the princess' personator, the princess herself standing back and enjoying the farce that was being enacted.

"What a joke it would be," she said to herself, "if these two could be brought to marry, each thinking the other to be of princely blood! As soon as the prince arrives I shall propose the plan to him."

She did propose the plan when her fiancé arrived the same evening and was admitted through a rear door of the palace. The prince was evidently much struck with the proposal and said he would think it over. He expressed a desire to see his man, Shuster, with a view to giving him further instructions, and the representative was introduced to his apartments. What passed between them was not known, but after the meeting the prince told the princess that he had proposed her plan to Shuster.

It had been arranged that the pre-nuptial festivities should last a week, then the wedding, after which there should be another week of rejoicing. The princess was much interested in her matchmaking between the two representatives and was quite pleased to find every evidence that the two had been violently smitten with each other. The prince and his representative had conferences occasionally, and the former reported to the princess that the latter had agreed to her plan of passing through the ceremony of marriage with her who was enacting the part of bride expectant, though he feared to get into trouble by marrying a princess while pretending to be a prince. But Adolf declared that he would make that all right, assuring the man of his personal protection.

The conspirators could not, of course, go so far as to have a public marriage celebrated between the two, so it was arranged that Shuster and the princess' representative should be married privately—that is, if the spurious princess would consent to the match. The day before the royal marriage was celebrated Shuster announced that he had won the lady's consent, and the prince and his fiancée agreed that the marriage should be celebrated that same evening in the private chapel of the palace.

A few of those most intimate with the princess were admitted to the secret and to the ceremony. All watched the proceedings with great gusto. Nothing could be more interesting than a marriage between two commoners, each thinking the other to be of royal blood. Many comments were passed on the pair, the most frequent of which was that, though commoners, each possessed the carriage and dignity of a person of the blood royal.

The groom had stipulated that immediately after the ceremony he should take his bride whither so ever he pleased and no questions asked. So when the pair had been congratulated they stepped into one of the royal carriages and were driven away.

That night the prince disappeared. On the dresser in his apartments was found a note stating that his name was Herman Shuster. He had personated the prince till just before his arrival at the capital, when his royal highness had suddenly decided to enter in his own propria persona. He whom the princess had taken for a dummy was the real prince. He had fallen in love with the princess' representative and married her.

The princess, astonished, mortified, gave orders to cease the preparations for the wedding that was to take place that day at high noon and shut herself up in the palace. There was but one matter of comfort for her—if her betrothed had jilted her he had married a commoner. This would insure innumerable troubles for him in the future and might cost him a crown.

But within a few days strange news came from a neighboring kingdom. The king of this country had recently died and left the throne to his daughter. The young queen was much beloved by her subjects, being given to charity. She was used to going among the poor and the institutions for the poor incognito for the purpose of studying the needs of the former and correcting abuses in the latter. She had found these incognitas so pleasant, relieving her, as they did, from the gaze of curious crowds, that she had adopted them when traveling. In one of her journeys she had been summoned to the palace of the reigning sovereign and had been assigned a duty by the princess royal, the latter thinking her to be a commoner. While in the palace she had happened to meet the heir apparent of another kingdom, a love affair had resulted and the queen had been privately married.

When the princess heard this news she was more astonished than before. What an imposition had been practiced

POETRY TRULY GREAT.

Matthew Arnold's Rule by Which It May Be Tested.

There can be no more useful help for discovering what poetry belongs to the class of the truly excellent and can therefore do us most good than to have always in one's mind lines and expressions of the great masters and to apply them as a touchstone to other poetry. Of course we are not to require this other poetry to resemble them. It may be very dissimilar. But if we have any tact we shall find them when we have lodged them well in our minds an infallible touchstone for detecting the presence or absence of high poetic quality and also the degree of this quality in all other poetry which we may place beside them. Short passages, even single lines, will serve our turn quite sufficiently. * * *

Take of Shakespeare a line or two of Henry IV's expostulation with sleep: Wilt thou upon the high and giddy mast Seal up the ship boy's eyes and rock his brains In cradle of the rude, imperious surge? * * *

And take as well Hamlet's dying request to Horatio:

If thou didst ever hold me in thy heart, Absent thee from felicity awhile, And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain

To tell my story. * * *

Take of Milton that Miltonic passage:

Darken'd so, yet shone Above them all the archangel, but his face Deep scars of thunder had intrenched, and Sat on his faded cheek. * * *

Add two such lines as:

And courage never to submit or yield And what is else not to be overcome. * * *

And finish with the exquisite close to the loss of Proserpine, the loss * * * which cost Ceres all that pain To seek her through the world.

These few lines, if we have tact and can use them, are enough even of themselves to keep clear and sound our judgments about poetry, to save us from fallacious estimates of it, to conduct us to a real estimate.—Matthew Arnold, "The Study of Poetry."

PRETTY SAFE PRISON.

Bloodhounds Guarded One Exit, Man Eating Sharks the Other.

Shark skin, shark teeth, shark oil, shark meat and several other byproducts of the dead shark are articles of greater or lesser utility, but I have never heard of but one instance where the living shark was put to a practical use. This, says Lewis R. Freeman, was when they used him as a prison guard in the old days when British convicts were transported to Australia, the monsters serving this purpose for many years at the Port Arthur settlement, ten miles south of Hobart, the present capital of Tasmania. The prisons at this point, some of which may still be seen, were situated upon a peninsula whose only connection with the mainland was by a long, narrow strip of sand called, from its configuration, the Eaglehawk's Neck.

The convicts were allowed considerable liberty on the peninsula, but to prevent their escape to the mainland half starved bloodhounds were chained all the way across the narrowest portion of the neck. Several prisoners having avoided the "bloodhound zone" by swimming, the authorities adopted the effective but greswome expedient of feeding the sharks at that point several times a day. In a few weeks the place became literally alive with the voracious man eaters, and from that time on the only convict who ever escaped accomplished his purpose by rolling himself up in kelp and working along, inch by inch, timing his movements to correspond with those of the other heaps of seaweed that were being rolled by the surf.—Wide World Magazine.

STAGELAND IN NEW YORK.

One Spot on Broadway the Mecca of All the Actor Folks.

New York to an actor means Broadway and Forty-second street always. There is no place in America like it—perhaps not in the world. Set in the midst of a city, the theatrical district is a city in itself, with denizens, customs and even a language peculiarly its own. Its frontiers shift, to be sure, and they are invisible, but they are as real and definite as stone walls could make them. A block too far in any direction and you are in the realms of business, society or boarding houses, but across the unseen boundary line and presto! you are in actor land.

Crowds of carefully dressed people saunter up and down, stopping half a dozen times in each block to gossip or exchange enthusiastic greetings. The men are clean shaven, with hard, sharp cut faces, which somehow look unfinished without makeup. The women are consciously striking, whether they are pretty or not, and their clothes show absolute genius for accentuating every prettiness they have. All of them emphasize their individuality. They have a constant air of feeling themselves observed and wishing to leave a lasting impression. An outsider—or "nonprofessional"—looks oddly neutral and ineffective beside them, like a man in ordinary street attire on a stage.

After all, it is more of a village than a city. Everybody knows everybody else, personally, by reputation or through mutual friends. It is a close knit fraternity, this order of grease paint, and beneath all the rivalry and envy and insincerity there is a warm and vital bond of comradeship.—From "Anne, Actress," by Juliet G. Sager.

SAN BRUNO NEWS.

SAN BRUNO METHODIST CHURCH.

Sunday school, 10:00 a. m.
Preaching by the pastor 11:00 a. m.
The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.
Prayer meeting, Thursday evening at 7:45.

On Tuesday evening the pastor's class of young folks in the Sunday School met in the church parlors and effected a class organization under the name, "M. C. K. Class of the Sunday School of the San Bruno Methodist Church." The initials mean,—Make Christ King. The class organized for the purposes of Bible Study, Mental Improvement and Social Service.

The evening was enjoyably passed, chocolate and cake being served for refreshments. The members of this class are: Misses Jessie Beaton, Claire Forster, Christina Drescher, Hermina Osmers and Masters James Forster, Dean Beckner, Hans Mueldner, Norman Reed, Robert Skillinger, Penfield Jensen. The class meets every Sunday for Bible study and once a month for organized work.

The regular Monthly Tea was given by the Ladies Aid Society in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon. A large company of ladies assembled and a short program was listened to with interest. Mrs. Holliday, Miss Butt and Miss Ledenich each gave a reading. The pastor and his wife were present, and Mr. Bertels conducted the devotional part of the program by offering prayer and making an address on "Christian Science."

Refreshments were served and Miss Butt's class of girls had a candy booth which seemed to be well patronized. Mrs. Calkins, the new president, certainly won the high esteem of the church's friends by her efficient management of this monthly function. The church is a good place to go either on a week day or Sunday.

Frank Jacobsen of the Petersen grocery will leave next week to make his home in Eureka, Cal.

Mr. Berk and family have moved in the cottage belonging to Mr. Barnwell, near Huntington station.

Mr. Christensen and family moved the latter part of the week to Alameda, as Mr. Christensen's work makes it necessary for him to reside there. Born—In San Bruno, January 24th to the wife of Charley Brose, a boy. Both are doing as well as can be expected.

Lots for sale, nothing down, balance $5 month, no interest. Homes built to suit you, large or small. Pay them off like rent. For particulars see L. M. Pfluger. Take San Mateo car and get off at San Bruno crossing. Advt.

Over one hundred citizens of San Bruno attended the mass meeting called for Thursday evening in Carpenters Hall. Mr. Magnusson called the meeting to order. W. J. Flynn was elected chairman and Miss Irma Evert secretary. After a statement that the meeting was called to consider the recall petition that had been lost an open discussion was held and it being found that a duplicate petition was ready for signatures and in fact had a number already, the petition being in the hands of Mr. Dixon of Huntington Park, a resolution was passed stating the confidence of those present in the integrity of Mr. Dixon and that he handle the matter and get it to the proper place and that he have the privilege of naming six citizens to assist him in the work. After some further discussion the meeting adjourned.

An entertainment and dance for the benefit of St. Bruno's Catholic Church will be given in Green's Hall, San Bruno, on Saturday evening, February 14, 1914 (Valentine's Day). The entertainment program, consisting of first-class talent from San Francisco, has already been arranged, and promises to be one of the best ever secured for a similar event in San Bruno.

Dancing, for which excellent music will be furnished, will commence at 10 o'clock. The price of admission, only twenty-five cents, affords a very fair opportunity for a large attendance.

On Tuesday evening the annual banquet of the Brotherhood of American Yeoman was held in Green's Hall. It was a gala time for the yeomen of this vicinity and their friends. Plates were set for one hundred people, and a six-course dinner was served. The committee in charge, under the efficient leadership of the retiring Lady Rowena, Mrs. Gibourett, handled the arrangements with great credit to themselves and made every one feel at home and all enjoyed themselves.

Between courses, four reels of pictures from the book of "Ivanhoe" were thrown on the screen. As the yeoman order and ritual is founded on this book, these pictures were particularly interesting and appropriate.

Among the many guests who were not members of the order were District Attorney Franklin K. Swart, of Redwood City; Joseph Birkenfeld, Miss M. Ryder, Wm. J. Flynn and many others.

Out-of-town members who were present and enjoyed the good fellowship were Joseph H. Nash, County Clerk of San Mateo County, and wife; Judge A. McSweeney, tax collector of San Mateo County, and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. M. G. McClinton of Easton.

The retiring foreman, Peter Bolliger, acted as toast master of the evening. Among those who responded to toasts were the new foreman for the ensuing year, Mrs. Jennie Flynn, District Attorney Swart, Joseph H. Nash, Judge A. McSweeney, the incoming Lady Rowena and Lady Rebecca, Mrs. H. Grady and Mrs. R. Liddle, and Deputy F. C. Russell. At the close, Mr. Bolliger, in a few well-chosen words, presented the retiring Lady Rowena, Mrs. Gibourett, with a gold engraved locket as a token of appreciation from the lodge, after which the foreman, Mrs. Flynn, presented the retiring foreman, Mr. Bolliger, and his wife, with a solid silver set, as a mark of esteem for the work of the past year. At the close all repaired to the upper hall to dance until the small hours.

PANAMA EXPOSITION NEWS

Radium, the rarest and costliest of all minerals, which is now attracting the attention of the scientific world as a probable cure for cancer, will be one of the most interesting exhibits at the exposition in the department of mines and metallurgy. The United States Government is expected to organize an exhibit, and German exhibitors also have promised to send a display of radium and radium ores.

Idaho has the honor of being the first State in the Union to start actual construction work on a pavilion at the exposition. For the past few weeks it has been a close race between Idaho, New York and Oregon, all of whom have let the contracts for their buildings and ordered the work started at once. From present indications it appears that the state and foreign pavilion section of the exposition grounds will be the scene of much activity within the next few weeks. New York and Oregon are expected to start actual work almost daily. Washington is following closely. The Missouri Exposition Commission is in San Francisco for this purpose, and New Jersey has an architect on the way to take matters in hand. Canada's Commissioner and architect are in the city, and early work on the Dominion's building is assured. A number of foreign nations will have construction work started in the near future.

AMERICAN SAILORS LAND IN HAITI

President of War-Torn Republic Flees

The President of Haiti, Michel Oreste, has fled from the capital and took refuge aboard the German cruiser Vineta. He was accompanied by his wife.

An hour after fighting began in the city the President left the palace under escort and was conveyed in a launch to the warship lying in the harbor. Almost immediately detachments of bluejackets were landed from the United States armored cruiser Montana and the Vineta.

Firing continued and it was evident that the revolutionary movement which began in the north and spread to some of the southern towns had gained sufficient strength in the capital to threaten not only the power but the life of President Oreste.

The new Congress, which met in extraordinary session a few days ago, failed to take adequate measures to check the revolution. It had been conceded for a long time, however, that the position of the executive was weak. Opposed to him were Senator Davilmar Theodore, in command of the rebel troops at Cape Haitien, and General Bellard, both of whom have a strong following.

It was the intention of Oreste to abdicate several days ago, but later he declined to do so, hoping, with the aid of Congress, to prevent the overthrow of his administration.

The arrival of the Montana and Vineta has relieved the situation so far as foreign residents are concerned. The legations are now under guard.

Wireless news that President Oreste of Haiti had fled from his revolution torn capital, "leaving no government," caused Rear Admiral Badger, at Guantanamo, Cuba, to start the battle-ship South Carolina on a 500-mile run at top speed for Port-au-Prince.

GENERAL NEWS EVENTS

Portland, Ore., has registered 1500 applicants, all married men, seeking city jobs intended to relieve the unemployed.

The long-continued cold, especially in the central districts of France, is bringing numbers of wolves, frantic with hunger, out of the woods. A little girl of LaCoquille, near Perigueux, was devoured by wild animals, the searching party finding only a torn pinafore and a few bones. Hunting parties are being organized everywhere.

Vincent Astor is having his yacht overhauled and refurnished, and as his orders to the shipbuilding firm are that the work must be finished by early spring, it is thought he is planning to spend his honeymoon in a sea trip. His father, Colonel John Jacob Astor, used the Noma on his second honeymoon trip. The cost will be about $100,000.

While Jack Johnson, the negro, pugilist, was seated in a cafe in the Place Pigalle, in Paris, sipping a French cocktail, he was struck on the skull with a heavy glass decanter, which had been hurled at him by "Kid" Hawkins, another American fighter. Johnson grunted and rubbed his skull, while Hawkins went off in a taxi. Nobody interfered with him.

B. O. Jones, original of "Slogger Williams" in "Tom Brown's School Days," is dead in London. Jones claimed some time ago to remember the fight described in the book, but declared he won, because when the head master arrived "Brown" had fainted. Rev. Augustus Orlebar, who died two years ago, was the original of "Brown," at least, so far as the fight was concerned.

The family circle at the White House was complete a few nights ago for the first time in two months. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayres, the latter formerly Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, reached Washington after a two months' honeymoon trip in Europe. They came back to the executive mansion as inconspicuously as they left it on the night of the wedding. They expect to spend a few days in Washington before going to their future home in Williamstown, Mass.

Emperor William of Germany celebrated his fifty-fifth birthday January 27th, hale and vigorous in body and mind, and able still, as was shown by his recent wood-chopping exploits, to undertake the physical work of a man Convicted of conducting a "loan shark" business in Rome, Ga., and violating the usury law by charging more than 5 per cent a month interest, Nathan C. Hoyt, first cousin of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, was fined $300 and warned that if he repeated the offense he would be sent to the penitentiary upon conviction. Hoyt paid the fine and promised he would quit the loan shark business. Hoyt's father was the uncle of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and the latter has been a frequent visitor to the Hoyt home.

Mayor Rockwell of Akron, Ohio, wrote a letter recently to the person who will be Mayor of Akron 100 years hence. The epistle tells the future Mayor of the present debt, the names of all city officials, the problems confronting the municipality and the political situation in Akron in 1914. The letter will be sealed, addressed to "His Honor, Mayor of Akron, 2014," marked with instructions not to be opened or molested until that year, and placed in a bank deposit vault to lie for a century. The salutation in the letter will fit either a man or a woman Mayor.

Organization of a permanent government for the Panama Canal zone to supersede the Isthmian Canal Commission on April 1st has been authorized by President Wilson with the announcement that the nomination of Colonel George W. Goethals to be first Governor of the Panama Canal, would be sent to the Senate in a few days. The authority of the Governor is to be supreme under the Secretary of War. Official notification of his selection was cabled to Colonel Goethals at Panama. Secretary Garrison said he was confident there would be no question about his acceptance. The change in title will mean a loss of $5000 a year to the head of the zone, as the Governor's salary will be $10,000, and he now receives $15,000 as chairman of the Commission.

The claim of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company to $62,000,000 damages against the Government for the latter's failure to turn over the alternate sections of land along its lines through Oklahoma, will furnish one of several important oral arguments to be made during the coming week before the Supreme Court at Washington. The Court will be called upon to study the title to some 90,000 acres of land, comprising the Alameda grant in the Rio Grande Valley, near Albuquerque, N. M., from 1710 down to the present day, in another case to be presented during the week. Some 500 heirs of Captain Juan Gonzales and Francisco Montes Vigil, to whom the King of Spain granted the land in 1710, assert title to the land. So do nearly 100 persons who have squatted on that portion of the land in the valley, and resided there for years.

G. C. Smith and J. R. Tippet, patrolmen on the San Diego police force, and Joseph E. Garbett, who had filed an application to be admitted to the department, were arrested for stealing bicycles and are now imprisoned in the City Jail.

Rhode Island has only $200 available cash in the treasury, and the year probably will end with a deficit of $46,430, says the State Treasurer.

MINERS PAVE WAY FOR CONSOLIDATION

Plan Is Put on a Working Basis

The proposition for the consolidation of the United Mine Workers of America and the Western Federation of Miners was placed on a working basis by the mine workers' convention at Indianapolis, Ind.

The international executive board was empowered to appoint a committee to meet with a committee from the Western Federation to discuss the amalgamation, and, if a plan should be agreed upon, to submit it to the miners for a referendum vote. The report of the committee must be submitted to the next biennial convention.

A resolution passed recommended that the subject of establishing co-operative stores be referred back to the various districts, with instructions that a campaign of education be carried on, so that the miners could take steps at the next convention toward establishing a chain of co-operative stores.

A movement to eliminate the international executive board and substitute a committee composed of the presidents of the various districts, urged by the constitution committee, was defeated.

An attempt was made to curtail the appointive power of the international president, but the delegates became unruly during the discussion and adjournment was taken before the subject was voted on.
